

BOGUS PAEDOPHILE ALERT

A bogus paedophile alert has been issued against Mark Taha of Hackney in a politically motivated vendetta. Stickers bearing the party's Tower Hamlets P.O. Box number have been put up in the Hackney area in an attempt to cause him as much inconvenience as possible. The emotive subject of the alert also places Mr. Taha in some physical jeopardy.

British Nationalist wishes to make it clear that Mr. Taha, who is not a supporter of the party, is not a child molester and the party has nothing whatsoever to do with this disgraceful slur. However, having said that, BN is pleased to announce that the illegal stickering has produced a number of enquiries for the party. All enquiries have been posted a current copy of BN, a number of the party's new anti-paedophile leaflet and a letter explaining that Mr. Taha is the victim of a hoax.

● Mr. Taha is currently in the process of suing the editor of anti-British hate magazine Suchshite for damages to his good name and is expected to win thousands of pounds worth of damages due to typical shoddy research at Suchshite which cost Private Eye and Panorama a small fortune in litigation some years ago.

● Mr. Baron, the independent libertarian researcher has settled out of court in his litigation against Suchshite and has accepted £5,000 towards his legal expenses. In the settlement the defendant, Mr. Gable, did not actually pay any damages, only the £5,000 contribution towards legal costs. However, as Mr. Baron undertook the entire legal case himself and this was widely known, this is a definite moral victory for the forces of truth over evil. Mr. Baron is currently aiding Mr. Taha in his litigation...
