PROGRAMME—(Continued)

THE LONDON PALLADIUM occupies the site of the former residences of the Duke of Argyll and Earl of Aberdeen.

In 1871-86, the reconstructed building housed the famous P.T. Barnum's Circus.

The present building completed in 1910 and named The London Palladium played all the great music hall names of the day. It later became a cinema but reverted to a variety theatre in September, 1928.

The present policy of the theatre and mode of presentation inaugurated in March 1948, has firmly established The London Palladium as the World's No. 1 Music Hall.
