I believe I may have played the Wing Gambit once or twice over the board, but never in a tournament or match game before as far as I can remember, though I don't think I've ever faced it. He didn't play it as well as he could have. Move 43 was a misclick, a perennial problem on this site, but even though it lost me the rook, I was still well ahead. He played on a queen down then with king against rook because I was short on time; I made sure I gobbled up all his pawns so I had at least a draw, and won with 56 seconds left on my clock.
