My second Caro-Kann of the day. I won the first playing one of the main lines. I thought this was the same bloke so played the King's Indian Attack but it was clearly not the same one judging from the way he played. He played the opening very badly but his middle game was a lot better. After my tactic on move 27, it's over. I won more material then simplified to a textbook king and pawn ending. Another fine game by both players.
