March 18

This one nearly made me cry. It started as an Alekhine then morphed into a Pirc. In this position he had already sacced a piece to delay mate. It's my move and it's mate in one. I went to play Q-R8 but the mouse slipped and I ended up playing Q-R7ch. After QxQ I could only resign, but I was so miffed that I ran the clock out.

I didn't play for the rest of the day after that, but I did have a lot of important things to do.
