Dear Mr Alexander Barron,

Re: Mr Donald CLIFFORD (Lord of Lambeth)

I am writing, at Mr Clifford's request. He is receiving treatment at this hospital for severe ongoing mental health problems, and is seen by me, and his consultant Dr Martin Baggaley on an ongoing continuous care basis.

Mr Clifford received a very abusive phone call this morning, after someone had read your press release, and he thus alerted to its existence on the net. He is very distressed to read that you are promoting this book, which he says you have no rights to, and that you have been informed of this before. He says he has not seen you since 2006, and would certainly not sign any for you to sell. He wishes you to remove this link and all links related to it immediately, and says he will otherwise report you to the local authorities.

I am writing on his behalf, as this has caused him immense distress. He has severe anxiety and suffers from bi-polar disorder, which can at times be uncontrolled and his behavior can be erratic and unpredictable. He is keen to come to your home and discuss this with you direct, but I have encouraged him to allow me to write on his behalf and to desist from visiting you, as he can become very agitated, stressed and upset when dealing with these kinds of situations. I would hope that you will take immediate action to remove it.

Please can you confirm receipt of this e-mail..

Yours Sincerely,

Tracey Taylor
Cognitive Behaviour Therapist
