Dear Mr Danczuk,

I sent the attached communication to Tom Watson as dated, but did not receive a reply, for whatever reason. I am writing you on the same terms. There has been a development in the meantime; I am suing the police again, this time for an outrageous arrest and computer seizure following a false allegation of harassment by a woman who has a track record of making false allegations. One of the grounds for this arrest was my publishing an article about her daughter, who at that time had been dead for nine years.

As you have since discovered, false allegations are extremely easy to make. I started a website about false allegations of rape last year, and hope this will endure long after my death. I have not yet added your case to it, but will in due course.

After the current legal case is finished I will be publicising the above through an overseas media outlet. I would though rather it got some domestic publicity first through someone who has a track record.

RSVP
A Baron
