Note:

When someone is arrested, bond amounts are determined by a schedule set by judges. Domestic related charges are not entitled to a bond until seen by a judge. If the arrest resulted from an outstanding warrant, the bond amount is set by the judge who signed the warrant. If the person arrested remains in custody long enough, the arrested will attend their first court appearance (Advisory Hearing). Approximately 50 to 60 inmates attend this hearing each day. The hearing can last from two to four hours. During this hearing, the judge may set a new bond amount or leave it the same.

Q. Is the bond amount negotiable?

A. No. Deputies will set the bond amount, based on the order of the judges.

Q. Arrestee was arrested on a domestic related charge and not able to bond out until they see a judge, how long will it take to see the judge?

A. The arrestee will attend the next available advisory hearing. Monday – Friday hearings are at 1:00 pm and on weekends / holidays hearings are 8:30 am. The times can change at the discretion of the assigned judge conducting the hearing. If arrested after 6:00 am Monday – Friday, they will attend the next day's hearing. If arrested after 5:00 am weekends or holidays, they will attend the next day's hearing.

Q. Can friends, family, witnesses, or victims attend the hearing?

A. Yes. You should arrive at the courthouse at least 15 minutes prior to the hearing. If you have any further questions regarding the hearings, please call the courthouse or notify the bailiff when you arrive. Phone numbers: New Port Richey (800) 368-2411; Dade City (800) 368-4274.
