September 8, 2025,

Dear Miss Alessi,

I am writing to you because I have had no satisfactory reply on-line.

I opened my YouTube account on November 18, 2008 and uploaded my first video on August 13, 2009. Since then I have uploaded around four hundred videos, not a great number.

My channel can be found at: <https://www.youtube.com/@SydBaron>

On June 30, 2022, I uploaded a 4 minute 7 second video called Random Thoughts On Mutilating Young Girls - a polemic against the surgical mutilation of vulnerable teenage girls by modern Dr Frankensteins. In retrospect, I could have titled it slightly differently, but no one appears to have been confused about its intent until August 29 this year when it was removed and my channel was given a strike. The reason given for its removal is that it was considered predatory and against Google's child safety policy. I appealed and the result, within a couple of hours, was this message:

"We reviewed your content carefully, and have confirmed that it violates our child safety policy."

Clearly, this video was not reviewed carefully, at least not by a human being. You may if you wish confirm this yourself by watching it on Rumble:

I would ask that you restore this video and more importantly remove the strike from my channel.

I am not unsympathetic to people who suffer from gender dysphoria or whatever it is being called this week. Way back in 1990, I published an interview with the transsexual Stephenie Robinson, who was a father of two before he transitioned.

That was the personal and in his case painful choice of an individual who was clearly experiencing spiritual pain as well as violent mood swings. What is happening now though is something very different, the young are being targeted by political activists in pursuit of a sinister agenda, and so-called medical professionals in search of profit or something else.

If you are not familiar with this subject, you will find many videos on YouTube from the victims of these Dr Frankensteins, including Prisha Mosley, a seriously disturbed teenager who instead of being helped with her psychological problems was pumped full of drugs and subjected to a double mastectomy aged just 17. You will find her testimony to a Senate committee at this link:

I would point out the removal of another of my videos which was nearly as absurd. On February 14, 2014, I uploaded a 2 minute 34 second video called My Valentine's Day Message To Lonely Hearts, which is an appeal to "incels" to stop agonising over their inability to get laid and find a purpose in life. On September 3 last year, it was removed because someone or whatever considered it to be some sort of incitement to terrorism. You will find it linked here:

At that time, I managed to contact a real person on-line but he was unable to restore the video.

I may be wrong but I have a feeling I am the victim of a mass flagging campaign. I know several YouTubers whose accounts have been so targeted by malicious actors.

I don't want to sound like a serial complainer, I have published articles in defence of Google in the past, including an attack by Margaret Hodge who branded the company evil because it is structured to pay as little tax as possible, ignoring all the investment it has brought to this country and all the services it gives ordinary people at the click of a mouse.

Having said that, I believe I am also shadow banned, not necessarily by Google and definitely not only by Google. Ten years ago when I had far fewer subscribers, my videos would regularly generate a few thousand or a few hundred views. In recent years, I get hardly any. Be that as it may, please look into this strike on my last video and if possible have it restored. To brand it predatory is absurd; rather it is predators who hate it.

Yours Sincerely,
A Baron
