

artmap

Barbican

Seduced: Art and Sex from Antiquity to Now

12 Oct 2007 - 27 Jan 2008

Nobuyoshi Araki, From Eros, 1993. Courtesy the artist

Seduced: Art and Sex from Antiquity to Now

12 October 2007 - 27 January 2008

Barbican Art Gallery

'The Barbican has conceived a real mother of an exhibition' Royal Academy of Arts Magazine

Seduced explores the representation of sex in art through the ages. Featuring over 300 works spanning 2000 years, it brings together Roman sculptures, Indian manuscripts, Japanese prints, Chinese watercolours, Renaissance and Baroque paintings and 19th century photography with modern and contemporary art.

Seduced presents the work of around 70 artists including Nobuyoshi Araki, Francis Bacon, Jeff Koons, Robert Mapplethorpe, Pablo Picasso, Rembrandt van Rijn and Andy Warhol among others. Stimulating the mind and the senses, provocative and compelling, Seduced provides the historical and cultural framework to explore the boundaries of acceptability in art. Seduced is curated by Marina Wallace, Martin Kemp and Joanne Bernstein

www.barbican.org.uk

<https://artmap.com/barbican/exhibition/seduced-art-and-sex-from-antiquity-to-now-2007>