

SEARCHLIGHT

THERE WILL not be many of you reading this who have not yet heard of the State/Zionist magazine, Searchlight. Possibly without exception all long-serving activists know of the insidious role this publication attempts to play within the Nationalist political spectrum. However, because the ENM is in the process of recruiting a new generation of Nationalists we feel that it would be a wise move to reiterate our feelings about Searchlight magazine, especially as up and coming Revolutionary Nationalists need to be aware of its aims. This short piece attempts to throw some light on the situation.

UNWELCOME EXPOSURE

Most people see Searchlight in terms of simple and, more often than not, unwelcome exposure of Nationalist activists; an informative magazine for the Left to use in its "fight" against us. Granted, this is one of its roles, but not the prime role. That much of the so-called Left-wing in the British Isles are in the process of rejecting Searchlight as a source of valuable information only serves to demean this role further.

MANUFACTURING CONSENT

Another secondary role is to inform journalists in the national controlled news media about Nationalist activism, in the hope that they will pick up on some of the stories and bring them to the attention of a wider audience, i.e. the general public. In this capacity, much of the "information" Searchlight provides is specifically designed to be sensationalist and an exaggeration of the facts. Why? Searchlight attempts to manufacture consent for the suspension of the civil liberties of the Nationalist community and, in turn, the wider community. Legislation initially used against Nationalists is inevitably employed against the whole populace. Just as the State uses the "threat" of criminal activity to introduce its CCTV programme for eventual total population control, the State in conjunction with Searchlight attempts to use the "threat" of alleged Nationalist activity to introduce laws curtailing basic freedoms. Some journalists are obviously in on the programme, but others are largely unaware that they are being used for this end.

MAIN ROLE

But what of Searchlight's main role? Purely and simply it is to manipulate and attempt to control what it would call the broad "Right-wing" in the British Isles. How does it seek to do this? The strategy is simple. The security services, to which Searchlight is linked, have realised that Gable's magazine is widely read amongst the Nationalist community, whether it is for reasons of "patriotic glory" (and believe it or not some people actually go out of their way to appear in this State-sponsored publication) or simply to see if the spotlight has been turned on their particular group or organisation.

PLAYING MIND GAMES

Having captivated the audience it wishes to manipulate, it then sets about playing mind games with them. How? Searchlight operates on the basis of divide and rule. Periodically it will choose a target group to manipulate. This group will be "exposed" in the pages of Searchlight and portrayed as violent, hardline and progressive in terms of recruitment. Most importantly its contact address will be printed. Over a period of months or even years the group in question will receive varying degrees of publicity and exposure, most of it positive in the hope that Nationalists from other groups will be attracted to it. Once the target group has been built up to what Searchlight deems to be a sufficient level, Gable will then begin the task of dismantling it. The favourable publicity will become derogatory; it will attempt to set individuals within the target group against each other; and it will attempt to set other Nationalist groups against it.

STATE OF FLUX

In most cases this strategy meets with only limited success, most Nationalists know what Searchlight is attempting to achieve and ignore it. However, from our point of view even limited success cannot be tolerated. We are at war with the State and it is a mistake to let it (along with a few sycophantic Jews) manipulate Nationalist political groups for their own ends. What the State/Zionist entity wants is a constant state of flux within the Nationalist community as it gets people to move from one group to another, it wants to cause internal bickering and it wants to cause splits. The goal is to create division, disharmony, an unstable environment and low morale.

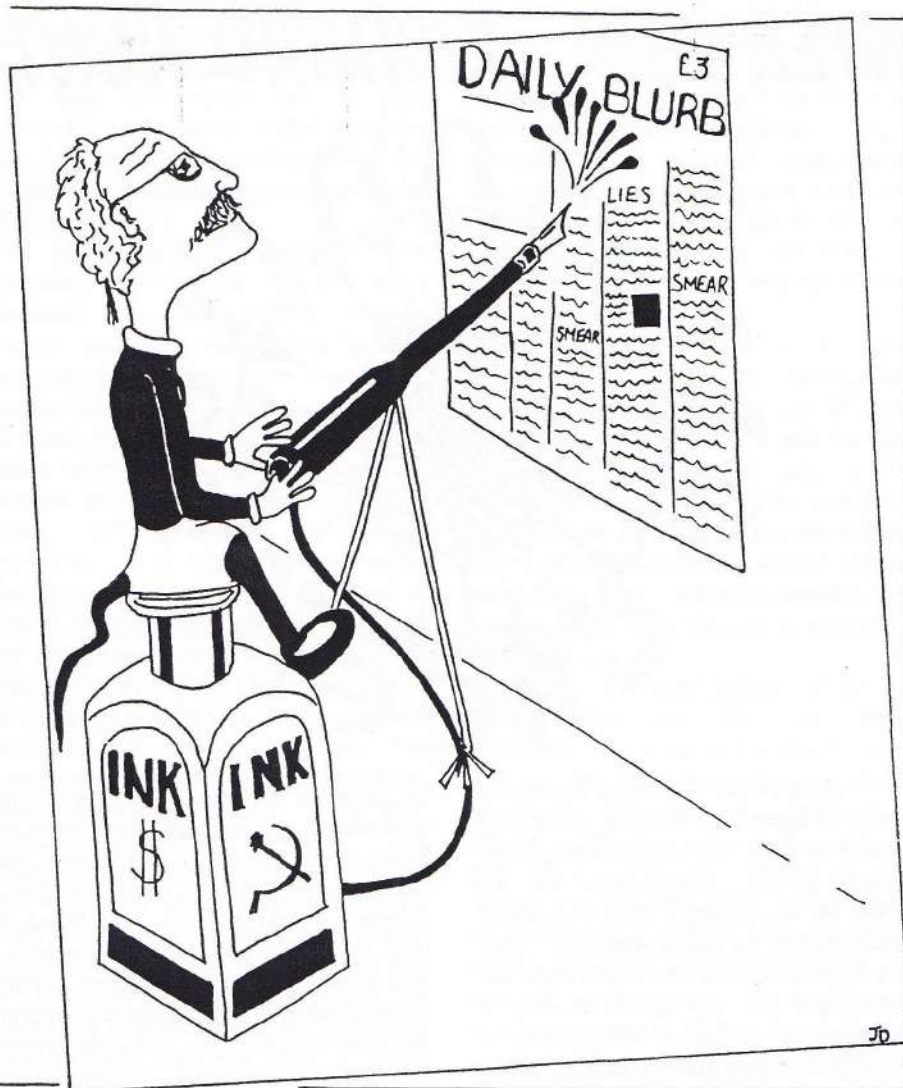

THREE OPTIONS

So, how do we combat it? There are three options. The first is to recognise the true nature of the problem, i.e. see Searchlight magazine for what it is: a State/Zionist weapon against us. The second is to read it with a pinch of salt or, better still, boycott it altogether. This should be an easy task, after all, who really wants to read a magazine published by a group of race-mixing Jews in conjunction with the political police? If nobody reads it, it can serve no purpose. Some would say the third option is irrelevant at this stage, but it deserves an airing all the same. What is it? Simply to "take out" the Searchlight team. Obviously the logistics cannot be discussed here.

PATHETIC

Above all it should be remembered exactly who the enemy are, this is half the battle. Secondly, no one should allow themselves to be influenced and persuaded by State/Zionist propaganda. Whilst it is true that some uncommitted part-timers may become the periodic victims of State manipulation, schooled Revolutionary Nationalist Cadres never will. As in all things, knowledge is power. Armed with such knowledge Searchlight magazine can only be seen for the pathetic irrelevancy that it really is.

* In the next issue of The Crusader we will be examining the Revolutionary's attitude towards the police, and debunking the myth widely held by various reactionary types that the police are somehow "on our side", but are currently under the control of a renegade leadership.

REMEMBER THE ENM IN YOUR WILL

IT IS always a sad occasion whenever an ENM Supporter or Friend of the Movement makes his or her departure from life, but remember, for those still living the struggle must go on! Please think of us when you come to make out a will or, if you have already prepared such a document, remember that it is a fairly simple process to make a slight alteration in our favour. Life on this earth is relatively brief, but the Movement is a vehicle that will continue to fight for the same values which you supported during your lifetime, and we gladly welcome your financial assistance to complete the task at hand and make England a brighter place for our descendants. Thankyou.

"THE NEXT candidates for arbitrary reclassification as nonpersons are the elderly. This will become increasingly so as the proportion of the old and weak in relation to the young and strong becomes abnormally large, due to the growing anti-family sentiment, the abortion rate, and medicine's contribution to the lengthening of the normal life span. The imbalance will cause many of the young to perceive the old as a cramping nuisance in the hedonistic life-style they claim as their right. As the demand for affluence continues and the economic crunch gets greater, the amount of compassion that the legislature and the courts will have for the old does not seem likely to be significant considering the precedent of the non-protection given to the unborn and newborn."
