For some considerable time now, people from North Africa and beyond have been crossing the Mediterranean in for the most part unseaworthy boats in order to reach Italy, France and most especially the UK. Some of them are fleeing war but for the most part they seek to leave poverty behind. This is no longer a trickle but a flood. As always there are those of a certain political hue who are not unhappy with this, and who insist we open our borders to allow in not simply a few thousand or a few hundred thousand but millions, tens of millions or indeed hundreds of millions. Check out for example the imbecilic ravings of No One Is Illegal; there is not even a ghost of an attempt to hide their specious Marxist rhetoric. The message is take more and more and more migrants, if you don't, you must be racist.

Well guess what, most people have had enough of this pathetic racial blackmail, and not just whites. The time has come to instigate a genuine fortress Europe, and that begins with a sane immigration policy as opposed to the insanity we have at present.

The first question we should ask is would anyone else stand for this? The answer is an emphatic no. Writing earlier this month, a Malaysian commentator asked why his countrymen hated migrants, and concluded that:

“Our country is losing out and Malaysians are worried.

We worry that these foreign migrant workers will steal our jobs, corrupt our daughters, infect our wholesome lives with their foreign diseases, litter our neighbourhoods and fill our towns with their bizarre, non-readable foreign language...

We need to remove that hatred and begin to create a platform where Malaysians can discuss such matters in a more reflective, rational and civilised manner.”

The first part of this statement is not only partly true but universal. People do not hate migrants, they just don't want anymore of them. Is this not a reasonable position? Why should people not fear their own heritage will be trashed, because for many of us, that is what is happening, especially in the white world, or what is left of it. Europeans were told they fought two world wars, especially the Second World War, to fend off the tyranny of an alien ideology which would enslave them, even exterminate them as inferior races. Then immediately after that war, surprise, surprise, the rules were changed, suddenly there is only one race, the human race.

In fact there is a human species which consists of many races and sub-races of man, although there are those who want it not to be. In particular there are those who seek to erase the white race from the face of this planet? Think that is paranoia, a conspiracy theory? Listen to this odious individual, Noel Ignatiev, who talks about abolishing the white race. Imagine the furore if he'd said he wanted to abolish Aborigines, or Jews.

And how about this brainwashed flibbertigibbet who is clearly ashamed to death of her own white skin railing against white privilege? Where do they get these ludicrous ideas?

The concept of white privilege was expounded at length by Peggy Mackintosh, who like Saida Grundy is one of those airhead academics who interprets her own privilege as racial rather than one bestowed upon her by an educational system that has clearly lost its way.

Mackintosh, Grundy and others see privilege and oppression everywhere – don't they love that latter word? Yet what do they put it down to? There are of course many types of privilege in this world, most of them related to money. Indeed, blacks – a supposedly so oppressed minority – are among the highest earners in both the UK and the US especially. Floyd Mayweather is currently nearly halfway towards becoming a dollar billionaire, not bad for a man whose only talent is using his fists – including on women. He should worry about white privilege because...

What would be the result if Europe's borders were abolished and people were to flood in from the four corners of the Earth? Quite simply, it would collapse. If you think otherwise, take a look at Africa today, the continent was developed by the white man, who has now been largely replaced by the Chinese. If you want to see what Africa was like before the wicked Imperialists, check out the 1925 film In The Land Of Giants And Pygmies.

The current situation in Africa is far from new; back in the 1980s there were massive relief efforts spearheaded by musicians, remember Band-Aid? The problem has grown worse not better since then, and this is the fault of Europe how?

Anyone who is tempted to claim this stance is heartless (as well as racist, of course) should ask the question if Europe will not take in these refugees, who will? Malaysia? That question has been answered already. How about Myanmar – once known as Burma? Earlier this month, the authorities there deported around a thousand Bangladeshis at the drop of a hat. Other nations won't stand for this sort of invasion, and neither should the nations of Europe. Japan is a largely racially homogeneous society, and is none the worse for it.

That being said, what is to be done? One must draw a distinction between humanitarian aid and the nightmare scenario proposed by the braindeads of No One Is Illegal. We should provide the former, but allow no more migrants except those who have healthy bank accounts or skills we need.

With regard to the situation in Europe, as things stand we have already seen major unrest on racial lines, not all of it between whites and non-whites. There are also good security reasons for restricting immigration to a trickle or even stopping it altogether. In April, Italian police arrested 15 Moslem migrants after 12 Christians from Ghana and Nigeria were thrown overboard from a boat bound for Italy. We have enough psychopaths walking among us already without allowing men as ruthless as that to cross our borders just because some moron bleats racist every time we say enough is enough.

There are now many millions of Moslems dwelling in Europe, and perhaps we should look to them for a better model, like the multi-ethnic states of the Ottoman Empire. This lasted for six hundred years, and all minorities fared well under it without the odious race relations legislation that has been foisted onto Europe and elsewhere over the past half century. In the United States, the Nation of Islam has been arguing for something even more radical, or perhaps their demands are not so radical. Whatever, anything must be better than the madness we now have, and the racial Armageddon into which our governments are sleepwalking us.
