You've obviously heard of Halloween, but what is Helloween? No, it is not an alternative celebration, Helloween is a German power metal band formed in the wake of the New Wave Of British Heavy Metal, which includes bands like Iron Maiden and Praying Mantis.

Many bands are noted for longevity, and many non-English bands are noted for recording fluently in the lingua franca of the Universe. Over their thirty plus year existence, Helloween have had a few changes of line-up, although two founder members are still with the band, and yes, their English is excellent.

Currently they are in the Far East; next year, the band will be touring on both sides of the Atlantic, but they have been hinting that something special will be happening on October 31. What that is – mega-event or hype – you can find out by keeping an eye on their official website. You can also find a lot of footage of them on YouTube, including their concert in Moscow last August.
