"PADDY, THE NEXT BEST THING"

By W. Gayer Mackey & Robert Ord
(adapted from the novel by Gertrude Page)

ABOUT NEXT WEEK'S PLAY

THE SEVENTH VEIL

Successful stage plays are often translated into films, but here for the first time is a successful film which has been translated into a stage play.

As a film 'THE SEVENTH VEIL' was a tremendous success starring such household names as James Mason and Ann Todd. It then became a stage play at the Prince's Theatre, London still with Ann Todd in the leading role, but playing opposite Leo Genn and Herbert Lom.

The story makes excellent theatre, and has been dubbed by many as being the modern 'Trilby'. Here is the story of a man who hates the opposite sex, but is compelled to shelter a homeless relative much against his will. Under his domination she becomes a world famous pianist and the play leads up to a gripping yet human climax which holds the attention throughout.

RONALD ELMS

Ronald Elms, the Court Players' Stage Director, has been in the Theatre since he was fourteen. He has gone through every phase of back-stage work from Call Boy to Stage Director, and from Assistant Stage Manager to Juvenile Lead. Although he is kept busy at Bradford in his capacity of Stage Director, he has made several appearances before the footlights in some delightful character sketches.

As a Stage Director we have every reason for admiring his work for there has never been anything slipshod about it. Ronnie is greatly helped in his work by local dealers who cheerfully lend furniture, etc. of the period required. Very rarely has he had to go out of the City for his requirements, but he was nearly stumped a few weeks ago when he wanted a couple of suits of armour. However, they were on stage at that particular Monday's Dress Rehearsal.
