THE FRIDA KAHLO OF PENGE WEST

A two-woman comedy about one woman's struggle to stage a one-woman play about Frida Kahlo, with two women in it...

When quiet, unassertive Zoe agrees to let an old university chum sleep on her sofa for "just a couple of nights", little does she imagine how much her life will be blown apart. For Ruth - vain, driven, and narcissistic - is an unemployed actor and extraordinarily cross about it. And when Ruth determines to show the World a thing or two by writing and starring in a play of her own, the hapless Zoe is dragged down with her...

This wicked, caustic, absurd new comedy will take you to hell and back - or, Penge - to a surprising twist of a happy ending... well happy-ish

The Odd Couple meets Reservoir Dogs, but with bigger laughs and Mexican accents.
